Ōritōri Welcome to

Iriomote Island is the second largest island in Okinawa Prefecture next to the main island of Okinawa, with a perimeter of about 130 km and a population of about 2,400. Also called the last unexplored region in Japan, the island is covered with subtropical forests and mangroves.

Iriomote Island is home to rare wildlife, including the Iriomote cat and crested serpent eagle, both designated as National Natural Monuments. To help protect this rich nature for future generations, we've compiled a list of guidelines for visitors. We hope you enjoy a wonderful time with the islanders and wildlife, surrounded by Iriomote's beautiful nature.

Irumuti!

1.Be gentle to island life

We islanders wish to give a warm and pleasant welcome to everyone visiting Iriomote Island. For this, we would appreciate it if you could be mindful to our lifestyle and respect our customs and culture.

Respect island customs and culture

Do not enter Utaki (places of worship), graves, private homes, or school grounds.

That's actually a nuisance!?

Do not use boats, buses, or restaurants while wet or dirty.

Follow traffic rules and take care when stopping or parking your car to avoid obstructing traffic as much as possible.

The island is a place where people live

Do not walk around villages in swimsuits or with your upper body naked.

Do not look into people's homes or take pictures of residents or children without permission.

Many festivals are solemn occasions for prayer. If you wish to observe a festival, please talk to a local and behave in a respectful manner.

here are places where unmanned aircraft (drones) cannot be flown.

Check and follow procedures when flying, and do not fly when there are people nearby.

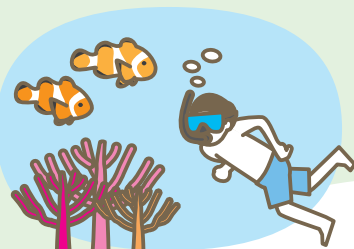

2. Be gentle to living things

Iriomote Island is home to many rare wildlife, notably the Iriomote cat. Please help protect the wildlife so they can thrive on this small island for years to come.

Manners for observing wildlife

Do not feed or stalk wildlife.

When in the ocean, be careful not to damage or step on coral. Also, do not stand on top of corals.

The island's flora and fauna belong to the island

Do not unnecessarily take, damage or move wildlife or plants.

Do not release or discharge animals brought in from outside the island, or plant vegetation or their seeds.

Drive Slowly!

In recent years, traffic accidents involving the Iriomote cat have become more frequent.

Drive at the speed limit of 40 km/h (30 km/h in villages).

Schedule your trip so you will have plenty of time to drive slowly.

3. Be gentle to nature

Iriomote Island's rich nature is delicate, and even small actions can cause harm. Every one of you play a key role in protecting its forests and oceans.

In fields

In fields, trek and stay on designated trails.

Use sunscreen and insect repellents that have minimal impact on the natural environment.

Do not bring pets into the forest, except for assistance dogs. Do not bring cats onto the island.

Do not litter and take your garbage home with you.

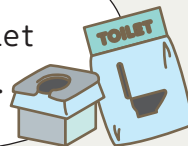

Before entering fields

Don't forget to use the restroom.

Remove mud and seeds from your clothes and shoes before entering the forest.

Bring a portable toilet if possible.

4. Be gentle to other users

We would appreciate it if you could be mindful to other users so that everyone can pleasantly enjoy the nature of Iriomote Island. Please share the beauty of Iriomote Island with everyone.

The field belongs to everyone

Do not disturb other users.

Do not smoke in fields, except in areas where smoking is permitted.

Do not camp or start campfires outside of campgrounds.

When taking pictures or resting in fields, be careful not to obstruct the passage of others.

5. Take care of yourself

The nature of Iriomote Island can be harsh. Islanders have lived with its blessings while respecting its power. To enjoy it, be prepared and prioritize safety.

Wait a minute! Before you enter a field

Be aware of weather warnings and advisories, sudden changes in the weather, and refrain from going to the forest or river when conditions seem dangerous.

Do not go to a field while under the influence of alcohol.

Avoid using forest trails at night.

Confirm emergency contact information from pamphlets and be prepared with at least a minimum of first aid supplies.

Wear life jackets and other lifesaving equipment when canoeing, kayaking, stand up paddleboarding, snorkeling, fishing, etc.

When swimming or snorkeling in the ocean, never swim alone.

When entering forests, use a nature guide (Taketomi Town Nature Tour Operator) as much as possible.

Life is important!

If you notice unusual conditions in the forests, rivers, or ocean, make life-saving actions your top priority and immediately secure your safety.

Attention tourists

Did you know? Iriomote Island has introduced a guide license system

In April 2020, the "Taketomi Town Nature Tour Operator Ordinance" was enacted for Iriomote Island, requiring tour guides in land and river areas to obtain a "Taketomi Town Nature Guide License." This system ensures quality local guides who help protect and sustain the island's precious nature.

Look for this mark

Licensed guides are safe and reliable, meeting various requirements, including "Lifesaver" and "Water Rescuer" certifications! Be sure to check if a guide is licensed for "trekking" and "canoeing" tours. Guides without a designated sticker or guide license are unlicensed guides. Please be careful!

Check it out when you join a tour!

- Is there a designated sticker on the pick-up/drop-off vehicle?

- Is there a designated sticker on the canoe or SUP?

- Does the guide have a certified guide license?

Diving, snorkeling, and fishing in the ocean is not subject to the licensing system, such activities are available without a license.

Limitations on the number of users begin in March 2025 at five fields on Iriomote Island

The nature experience system in Iriomote Island will be changed to connect the rich nature where Iriomote cat lives to the future!

Iriomote Island has established various rules for the use of nature experience fields to protect and preserve its precious natural resources for years to come.

Five fields in Iriomote Island, including “Pinaisara Waterfall,” which are particularly in need of environmental preservation, are designated as “Specified Natural Tourism Resources” based on the Ecotourism Promotion Law, and the maximum number of visitors allowed per day is set.

To enter these fields for trekking, canoeing, etc., you must apply in advance to Taketomi Town for permission.
